

Morton's Neuroma: What is it?

Morton's Neuroma is an agonizing disease. As a podiatrist, I can tell you that this condition is certainly nothing you want to ignore.

Hi, my name is Doctor Mauras and I would like to teach my friends in the Columbia Gorge about the interesting yet debilitating disease called Morton's Neuroma.

Morton's Neuroma is a condition where the lateral plantar nerve joins with the medial plantar nerve to form one large nerve between the third and fourth toes.

When you walk and put pressure on this enlarged nerve, radiating pain is often felt throughout the foot, and some may feel as if they have a pebble in their shoe. At my office here in Hood River, OR we want to help those suffering with Morton's Neuroma and keep the problem from growing more severe.

I invite you to come see me, Doctor Mauras and let me bring you some much-needed relief!
